

International Journal for Innovative Engineering and Management Research

A Peer Reviewed Open Access International Journal

www.ijiemr.org

COPY RIGHT

ELSEVIER
SSRN

2015 IJIEMR. Personal use of this material is permitted. Permission from IJIEMR must be obtained for all other uses, in any current or future media, including reprinting/republishing this material for advertising or promotional purposes, creating new collective works, for resale or redistribution to servers or lists, or reuse of any copyrighted component of this work in other works. No Reprint should be done to this paper, all copy right is authenticated to Paper Authors

IJIEMR Transactions, online available on 12th Nov 2015. Link

[:http://www.ijiemr.org/downloads.php?vol=Volume-04&issue=Issue 09](http://www.ijiemr.org/downloads.php?vol=Volume-04&issue=Issue 09)

10.48047/IJIEMR/V04/ISSUE 09/05

Title ENGLISH -GLOBAL LANGUAGE

Volume 04, ISSUE 09, Pages: 23-24

Paper Authors

A.v.Rajya Lakshmi

USE THIS BARCODE TO ACCESS YOUR ONLINE PAPER

To Secure Your Paper As Per UGC Guidelines We Are Providing A Electronic Bar Code

ENGLISH -GLOBAL LANGUAGE

A.v.Rajya Lakshmi, Lecturer in English, Bapatla College of Arts and Sciences,

Mob:- 9908963125, E-mail Id- rajyalakshmbcas@gmail.com

English is the most popular language, spoken in almost all countries. It is proved by many native and non-native speakers that English is an efficient language worldwide. Moreover, compared to other languages, English is easier to learn. English is the language of technology, so knowing English is necessary to make the best use of the internet. It also makes tourism easy, as it helps better understand the people. Also, any international meeting will probably be done in English. This essay will discuss why English is considered a global language.

English language derivation occurred from German, Latin, and other European languages. Due to this, Europeans don't consider English a complex language to learn. Also, according to linguists, English became a global language due to its simplicity.

We can see a strong link between dominance and cultural power in languages. English, as a language, became famous because of its powerful base, whether political, economic or military. Education is provided in the English language, due to which all variations of research-based education and projects are based on this language. Scientific, technical and medical research all depend on the English language. Nowadays, research-based learning is imperative in all education streams, and the medium should be English.

In the modern era of technology, people approach the internet to get information about the smallest things possible. So, gradually, the English language has proved its strong presence globally, and people have started to access related content through the English language.

Since English is so widely spoken, many non-native speakers have found that they've been required to learn it to stay in business. English has approximately 375 million native speakers, born in the United Kingdom, the United States, Canada, Australia and other countries. However, it has been estimated that there are over a billion non-native speakers.

While English can be very difficult to learn, learning it can be very rewarding. Knowledge of English makes it possible for natives of non-English speaking countries to enjoy English language film, television, music, magazines, novels and nonfiction, among other things, without the need for any translation. English makes communication with people of other countries and cultures possible. More importantly, English offers a wide range of possible expressions for similar concepts.

Another thing in favor of English is the relative simplicity of conjugation of verbs.

Every language has its conjugation nightmare, especially for the irregular verbs. However, English dispenses with complex prefix and suffix arrangements for tenses such as the future tense and moods like the conditional in favor of a simpler auxiliary verb conjugation. Perhaps the existence of English as a global language of commerce is a by-product of imperialism. It's very likely that it is. However, English has become an international language which bridges cultures and language barriers.

English is the dominant business language and it has become almost a necessity for people to speak English if they are to enter a global workforce. Research from all over the world shows that cross-border business communication is most often conducted in English and many international companies expect employees to be fluent in English.

By learning English we will have access to a great wealth of entertainment and will be able to have a greater cultural understanding.

Learning English is important as it gives us access to over half the content on the internet. Knowing how to read English will allow us access to billions of pages of information which may not be otherwise available.

REFERENCES

1. D. Crystal, English as a global language Cambridge, Cambridge University Press, 1997.
2. A. Pennycook, The Cultural Politics of English as in International Language, Longman Publishing, New York, 1994.

3. R. Phillipson, Linguistics imperialism, Oxford University Press, HongKong, 1992.

4. B. Russell, How can real intercultural communication be achieve?, Un published Manuscript.

5. Pham Ha, How do Culturally situated notions of polite forms influence the way Vietnamese post graduate students write in English, Australian Journal of Education 3 (2001) 296.

6. G. Ellis, The Appropriateness of the Communicative Approach in Vietnam: An Interview Study in Intercultural Communication, Master Thesis, Latrobe University, 1992.